

At Sukkot we celebrate God's provision and protection for His people

The entire assembly of those who had returned from the captivity made booths and lived in them. The sons of Israel had indeed not done so from the days of Joshua the son of Nun to that day. And there was great rejoicing. Nehemiah 8:17

God's Provision and Protection

I love the festival of Sukkot just at the beginning of the fall season. It is a time of celebrating Yah's faithful provision as evidenced by the ingathering of the harvest as well as God's protection for His people as referenced by the sukkahs that we as His people erect as a reminder of His presence with us.

Tomorrow we will have a joint service with The Harvest where we celebrate these two themes as well as many other aspects of this special season. I look forward to finishing out this festival with fellow sojourners who are grateful for His provision and protection.
